

Blogs

Seafood

4 Places to Get Good Poke in L.A.

By Tony Chen Thu, Jul 10, 2014 at 9:00 AM

Comments \(10\)

Categories: Seafood

 Like  Share  6.3k  Tweet  63

4. Seasalt Fish Grill

Seasalt Fish Grill's new branch in Downtown opened with poke on the menu — and the dish was so popular it was immediately introduced to Seasalt's original Santa Monica branch. The poke here is sesame soyed ahi (sourced daily under the guidelines of Long Beach Aquarium's "seafood of the future" program), tossed with sesame seeds and green onions. It's available with tortilla chips, on top of a salad, or by the pound. Restaurateur Jimmy Jang says the the Peruvian ceviche has also been a hit, and there's absolutely no "secret ingredient" in the poke recipe; we say he's simply bringing Hawaiian dreams to the cubicles drones of downtown Los Angeles. 508 Santa Monica Blvd., Santa Monica; 310-656-9777. 812 W. 7th St.; Los Angeles; 213-243-5700.

 Seasalt Fish Grill
508 Santa Monica Blvd., SANTA MONICA
 310-656-9777
www.seasaltfishgrill.com

 Seasalt Fish Grill
812 W 7th St., DOWNTOWN L.A.
 213-243-5700
www.seasaltfishgrill.com